A stance in which the heels of one's feet are touching, and the toes are turned out. An ideal first position would make an angle of 180 degrees, or a straight line.

"My vision is to create an environment that is both challenging and rewarding for every student. Thank you to everyone who is helping make this dream a reality."

Welcome

Welcome to the Central Midwest Ballet Academy! We are eager to begin a studio that not only places an emphasis on your child's development and achievement as a dancer, but the encouragement for your child to embrace the expression and appreciation for the performing arts. We are very busy, from constructing the floors in the studio to hosting a picnic in August. September will be here in no time, which is what we are looking forward to most!
